CITY AFFAIRS.

Special Meeting of Board of Aldermen—Hitch in Princess Street Improvement—To Pay City Lighting.

In pursuance of the call of Mayor Waddell, the Board of Aldermen held a special meeting last night. There were in attendance Mayor Waddell and Aldermen Springer, Woolard, Worth, Montgomery, West, Hanby and Spencer.

Mayor Waddell stated that the meeting had been called to decide whether to pay the bill of the Wilmington Street Railway Company for lighting the city for the months of October, November and December. It will be remembered that the Board held up the pay for the city lighting on complaint that the Street Railway Company was not fulfilling its contract as to the quality and candle power of the arc lights. Mayor Waddell reminded the Board that at its last meeting Alderman Springer, of the lights committee, made a report without recommendation, and that no action was taken on the matter at that meeting. He said it was for this Board to say whether the lights should be paid for or shut off.

Upon request of the Mayor, Alderman Springer repeated his report, which was to the effect that the lights have been improved, the service is better, and that the Wilmington Street Railway Company shows every disposition to still improve the service. He said he was ready to vote for a motion to rescind the former resolution holding up the pay for the lights.

On motion of Alderman West, seconded by Alderman Worth, the former resolution was rescinded and the bill of the Street Railway Co. was ordered to be paid. The bill amounts to $885 for the three months, the contract being for $295 per month.

Upon request of the Mayor an ordinance was adopted, to the effect that hereafter the Board of Aldermen only shall grant license to sell rice beer, and that applications for license must be sent in the handwriting of the applicants.

Mayor Waddell stated that heretofore the applications for license were made to the clerk who made them out upon payment of the license fee. This method, he explained, was unsatisfactory, and objectionable parties could take out license. He said he was satisfied some of those who are licensed to sell rice beer sell liquor also. He stated that he had such a case before him in the city court yesterday.

Upon the suggestion of Alderman Hanby, the Chief of Police was instructed to use all possible diligence in arresting and bringing to punishment parties who injure personal property in the suburbs by breaking out window lights, damaging and destroying fences, etc.

Mayor Waddell stated that he learned that three owners of property on Princess street between Front and Second streets, refused to sign the agreement to pay their proportion of the expense of paving the block with vitrified brick. He said this disposed of the paving of Princess street with vitrified brick. He said so far as he was concerned he did not intend to delay the matter any longer and suggested that the city harden the road way on Princess street between Front and Second streets in the best manner its means will allow. The season is now getting so far advanced that much further delay will make it impossible for the improments to be made this season.

After discussing other matters the Board adjourned.

Cargo of Oranges.

The first of the season of what is known in wharf parlance as a "fruit vessel" arrived yesterday. She is the British schooner Julia Elizabeth, 120 tons, Capt. A. Sweeting, and she comes from Dunmoretown, Bahamas, with a cargo of 150,000 oranges, fifty crates of tomatoes, 1,000 sappadilloes and a number of cocoanuts, consigned to Messrs. George Harriss, Son & Co. She will begin discharging to-day at foot of Dock street. Every year Wilmington is visited by half a dozen or more of this class of vessels with cargoes of fruits from the Bahamas and West Indies, but this year they have been conspicuous for their absence at the wharves. The reason is that the West India hurricane in the early part of the Fall almost completely destroyed the crop in the islands, and this branch of shipping is thereby the sufferer. Messrs. Harriss & Co. this morning advertise the sale of the cargo of oranges in quantities to suit purchasers.

Families Moving In.

Superintendent Jno. J. Blair, of the Wilmington public schools, says that he is now very much encouraged with the attendance at the various institutions. Yesterday there were enrolled a goodly number of new students from families recently moved to the city and the attendance upon the whole is now very much better than at any time in recent years. This should be very gratifying to Wilmingtonians who are anxious about the educational welfare of the city and it is certainly indicative of a forward move of the city in many other respects.

BOYS' BRIGADE INVITED.

Asked to Participate in Lee Celebration. Officers Entertained at Lunch.

The members of Col. Walker Taylor's Boys' Brigade had a very satisfactory drill last night, after which the officers of the company were elegantly entertained at lunch at Warren's cafe by Corporal Fred Russ. The following letter was read, which is self explanatory, and employers of members of the brigade are urged to allow the boys an opportunity to accept the invitation embraced therein:

Col. Walker Taylor, Commanding Boys' Brigade;

SIR—It is with pleasure I invite your brigade to participate with the Confederate Veterans in celebrating General Lee's birthday on the afternoon of the 19th inst.

The programme is to leave the armory of the W. L. I. at 3 P. M. and march to the Opera House, where a short address will be delivered; thence to the City Hall, where a lunch will be served by the ladies.

Very respectfully,
JAS. I. METTS, Commander.

All Confederates Invited.

The STAR is requested by the committee of Cape Fear Camp, No. 254, U. C. V., which is making arrangements for the celebration of the birthday of Gen. R. E. Lee, next Friday, January 19th, to state that all Confederates of the city, or Confederate veterans who may be visiting the city at the time, are cordially invited to join in the celebration. They are requested to call on Mr. R. F. Hamme or at the armory of the Wilmington Light Infantry and get badges which will entitle them to admission to the lunch to be served for the veterans at the City Hall after the programme shall have been carried out at the Opera House.

Rebuilding at Carolina Beach.

Mr. Thad F. Tyler on yesterday began work with a force of carpenters and hands at Carolina Beach, rebuilding the cottage of Mr. N. M. McEachern, recently bought by Mr. S. W. Sanders. Eight others of the cottages destroyed by the storm will be rebuilt. They will be built further back from the ocean.

The pavilion will be repaired this week and the waterworks are also to be rehabilitated.

The railroad has been rebuilt, the line up the beach having been set back further from the ocean.

Mr. Shepard's Injuries.

Mr. Joseph C. Shepard, who was injured so badly when the southbound Atlantic Coast Line ran over and killed the horse which was drawing the buggy in which he and his wife were driving last Friday afternoon, had a bad day of it Sunday. The STAR is glad to learn, however, that he was some better yesterday, though his condition yet causes his friends some anxiety. Mrs. Shepard, who was also hurt, is recovering from the severe shock she received.

Stole Sausage Casings.

George Lewis, colored, was committed to jail by Justice Fowler yesterday, awaiting a hearing before his court on a warrant charging the larceny of about ten pounds of sausage casings from Messrs. J. F. Garrell & Co. Lewis was an employe of one of the markets belonging to Messrs. Garrell & Co., and it is alleged that while about his duties as delivery man he "swiped" the sausage materials. He will be tried to day.

THE BRIGHTEST AND PRETTIEST.

So Says the New York Herald of the "Runaway Girl."

The brilliant London and New York musical success of last season, as rendered by Augustin Daly's Musical Company, entitled "A Runaway Girl," gives "full measure and measure filled with hilarity." Thus said the New York Herald on the occasion of this opera's initial performance in New York, and in one sentence this not only hits off the truth of the matter, but does so in a more conclusive way than could possibly be furnished otherwise, as the New York Herald does not say such things unless they are so. The very flattering critique of this paper headed their criticism of the new opera with the one convincing line, "The Brightest and Prettiest of Them All."

The scenes are laid in Corsica and Venice and every opportunity for scenic effect and color scheme in costuming is seized and made use of. In the company are James T. Powers, well known and popular in our city, Marie Celeste, Van Rennsalaer Wheeler, Mae Baker, Miriam Lawrence and others equally popular and well known as talented and forceful entertainers now before the public. The sale of reserved seats for the entertainment is now progressing at Gerken's.

Mr. Caldwell's Resignation.

President W. L. Latta, of the Young Men's Christian Association, yesterday made public the announcement that Mr. Howard Caldwell, who for the past twelve months has so faithfully labored with the Association, as general secretary, has resigned and would leave here this week for Hopkins county, Kentucky, to take up a branch known in that State as Y. M. C. A., "county work." A successor to Mr. Caldwell has not yet been elected by the board of directors, but Mr. Robert E. Van Laer, a very capable and obliging young man of Wilmington, will temporarily act as secretary until a successor can be named.

Elected as Chairman.

The Democratic Executive Committee of New Hanover county met last evening at the office of W. B. McKoy, Esq., to fill the vacant chairmanship, and after an interchange of views unanimously elected Mr. Duncan McEachern to fill the position. There being no further business, the committee adjourned, it being understood that another meeting would be called by the chairman before the expiration of the present week.

In the election of Mr. McEachern the committee acted wisely. He is a man of excellent judgment, full of energy, and keenly alive to the importance of the great issue that is to be decided in the coming election.

White Man Insane.

W. H. Clifford, a white man who has been in a ward at the City Hospital for several days for treatment of injuries received as a result of a fall from the boiler frame of the Wilmington Street Railway a few nights since, became violently insane Sunday and had to be sent to the county jail for safe keeping. Yesterday a commission de lunatico enquirendo was held and he was adjudged insane. Clifford says his home is at Charleston, S. C., and Col. Taylor, Clerk of the Superior Court, addressed a communication to Governor McSweeney, asking what disposition to make of the man. He was re-committed to jail.

Rev. Melton Clark

Rev. Melton Clark, of Florence, S. C., preached two interesting and able sermons to large congregations at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday. In the morning he spoke from Daniel 4:35, an instructive discourse relating to God's sovereignty. At night his text was Second Samuel 12:13, and the special theme was "Sin." Sunday afternoon he spoke with much effect to a large gathering of young men at the afternoon prayer meeting service at the Y. M. C. A.

Lee's Birthday.

Capt. James I. Metts, Commander of Cape Fear Camp No. 254 U. C. V., and chairman of the joint committee of arrangements for the Lee birthday celebration, says that preparations are going on apace for the event commemorative of the lamented Confederate general. Employers are again urged to suspend business at 1 o'clock on the day of the celebration and give themselves and their employes a chance to participate in the ceremonies.

School Apportionment.

Capt. Ed. Wilson Manning, county superintendent of public instruction, furnishes the STAR with the following apportionment of the county school fund to the several townships for the six months ending June 30th, 1900:

District No. 1 (city)	$8,039.65
District No. 2 (city)	8,198.98
Country Schools	3,633 21
Contingent fund	1,000
Total distribution	$20,871.84

Important Band Meeting.

The Second Regiment Band will resume its rehearsals to-night at 8 o'clock at its band room at the City Hall. The band will also decide as to furnishing the music on the occasion of the celebration of General Lee's birthday by Cape Fear Camp next Friday afternoon at the Opera House. Every member of the band is therefore requested by Mr. James W. Monroe, the president, to be in attendance.

Directors Declare Dividend of Six and a Half Per Cent—Suit Compromised.

[Special Star Telegram.]

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 15.—The Directors of the North Carolina Railroad Company met here yesterday and declared an annual dividend of 6½ per cent., 3½ per cent. payable on February 10th and 3 per cent. payable on August 10th. The capital stock of the company is $4,000,000, therefore, to pay the dividend this year will require $260,000 or $140,000 on February 10th and $120,000 on August 10th. Next year under terms of the lease of the road to the Southern Railway Company, a dividend of 7 per cent. or 3½ per cent. semi annually will be paid.

The suit brought against the company by Philip W. Averitt for $3,100 attorney's fees and expenses, was compromised by the payment of $750. It will be remembered that Mr. Averitt, who is now in the asylum, was paid $1,000 and on account of certain criticisms went to the Governor and returned the money to the State. Later, through his guardian, he brought suit for this amount and for other money he claimed was due him for services and expenses, amounting in all to $3,100.

CURRENCY LEGISLATION.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin writes that the Senate committee on finance is wrestling with the refunding scheme and while the majority of the Republican Senators are in favor of it, they are fearful that it may not prove a popular measure and therefore they are feeling their way before they commit the party to it. This is the scheme which prolongs the life of the national banks for thirty years, which was so sharply and pertinently criticised by the New York Sun in an article which we reproduced a few days ago. The Sun is a Republican organ and as such warns the gentlemen in Washington who are pushing this scheme that they are making trouble for their party by tyeing to it the national bank system. Perhaps some of the Solons fear this and hence they consider the question of political expediency quite as much if not more than they do the question of currency legislation.

The New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin is not a political paper, and discusses public questions from a non-partisan standpoint. While an advocate of the gold standard, it is also an advocate of a scientific currency system, which would take the Government out of the banking business, turn the note issuing over to the people and let them supply their own paper currency without any interference by Congress. In commenting upon this proposed bond-refunding scheme, the object of which, under pretence of saving interest to the Government, is to perpetuate the national bank system, it says:

"It is hardly necessary to argue the necessity of a comprehensive and scientific currency reform measure from a financial point of view. That argument has been made exhaustively and to a large extent successfully. We infer from the willingness of both branches of Congress to enact a gold standard bill and to relax slightly the restrictions upon the issue of bank currency that the argument for a sound currency has produced conviction generally outside of the ranks of the avowed cheap money men. The extreme moderation of the proposals of the House Caucus Committee and of the Senate Finance Committee seemed to be due rather to considerations of expediency than to want of conviction. This hesitation on grounds of expediency, we fear, affects the House Committee on Banking and Currency which has just organized. The committee has a good chairman, and among its members are the gentlemen who have been most active for years in pushing currency reform bills in Congress. We have no doubt that the committee means well, and that most of the members of the committee are convinced of the importance of a radical improvement in our currency legislation. Several members of the committee have long been identified with meritorious bills for the improvement of the currency situation.

"But the committee is reported to be unwilling to act at present; to favor postponement of action till the gold standard bill has become a law, and till the effect of its very modest changes in the National bank legislation have been observed. It is not unfair to attribute this excess of caution to political considerations. We therefore suggest to the members of the committee that whenever public sentiment has been taken on this subject it has been found to be in advance of that among the political leaders. It was the public demand for a sound currency that forced the gold plank at St. Louis upon party leaders, most of whom were very reluctant—not because they did not believe in the plank, but because they feared it was inexpedient. Greatly to their surprise that same public sentiment forced the gold standard into the first place in the campaign instead of the secondary place it was expected to occupy. That public sentiment in favor of sound money gave the Administration party its decisive victory at the polls, and in spite of caution which might be called timidity in Congress that public sentiment in favor of currency reform sustained the prolonged efforts of the Indianapolis conference and expressed itself unequivocally in party platforms and at the polls in Oregon, Iowa, Michigan and several other States. That same sentiment welcomed the gold standard bills which the gentlemen in Congress tardily and reluctantly produced.

"The most expedient thing that the Administration party can do at this moment is to enact a bank currency law that will release the circulation from the fetters now imposed upon it. If the politicians will venture to do this they will be surprised again at the promptness with which the public, the majority of the people, practically the whole of the Administration party, will welcome the reform. With very rare exceptions all the opponents of rational banking, as of sound currency, are already in the opposition, and the Administration party can do nothing better for itself than to give the business of the country the currency legislation it has been begging for so long."

Speaking as a gold organ the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin assumes that the gold standard question was settled by the last election, that it was made an issue by the Republican party in compliance with the popular demand, both of which are pure assumptions, for every one knows that there was no popular demand for anything of the kind, and that making the gold question an issue was not thought of until Senator Platt, of New York, sprang it on the convention and forced the politicians to accept in in obedience to the dictates of the money combines of the East whom the political managers were afraid to ignore. But that was not a declaration for the gold standard. The only out and out gold party was the party represented by Palmer and Buckner, and they didn't make a respectable showing on the day of election, getting scarcely votes enough to be worth counting. The National Democracy, as the Palmer-Buckner party called itself, was the only party which positively committed itself to the gold standard, for while reaffirming its determination to maintain the parity of all our different kinds of money, the Republican party refused to commit itself to the single gold standard, although committing itself to gold payments of national obligations, and declared its purpose to labor to secure the co-operation of other governments to open their mints to the coinage of silver, so that silver like gold might become a world money. In this way the platform makers did what they considered the cunning thing and played into the hands of both the silver Republicans and the gold men, as they are now playing into the hands of the national bankers under pretence of saving interest to the Government.

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT.

An attempt has been made to influence public sentiment in the South and in the West in favor of the policy of forcible expansion by representing that with the Philippines in our possession there would be an enlarged market for Western farm products and for Southern cotton fabrics. It does not appear how holding the Philippines is going to contribute to this, for the people of those islands have little use for Western farm products and not much more for Southern cotton fabrics. They raise about all they need to eat, and twenty-five cents worth of cotton goods would clothe the average adult person. The market for American products is in China and we can work our way into that without the Philippines as well as we can with them. About the only advantage we could derive from them would be in having some port as a base of supplies and distributing point, and we could rescue that without any grab of the islands. The Filipinos would freely give us that and doubtless as many such ports as we might ask.

But assuming that there may be something in that, how about the other side of the question? We have protective tariffs on sugar and on cotton goods, the ostensible purpose of which is to protect the sugar beet grower and manufacturer and the cotton manufacturer and incidentally the cotton grower. The American people have paid a good deal of money in tariff taxes for these purposes. Now one of the strong arguments used by the expansionists is that sugar can be produced much more cheaply in the Philippines than it can be in this country, and cotton, superior to American cotton, can be grown there for much less than in the South, so that the Philippines under American control can come in as competitors of the American sugar cane and cotton growers.

The very men who have been foremost in the demand for the protection of American industries now stultify themselves by proposing to forcibly annex distant islands which will become formidable competitors of some of those industries, because they pay little to the laborer that produces the articles competed on. We do not believe in the doctrine of protection, but the sugar growers and cotton growers of this country should insist that the expansionists who have advocated protection should at least be consistent and not desert them now after having for years posed as their friends and champions.

The director of the United States Mint is trying to find the whereabouts of $300,000,000 of American gold coin which does not show up. Taking the amount coined at different times he comes short in locating this much, which seems to have disappeared. He would probably find a good deal of it disguised as European coins.

The climate of Cuba does not agree with American hogs, that is four-legged hogs. Out of 800 imported into Havana 600 died within a few days.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, Pa., was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in the back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and I am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at R. R. BELLAMY'S drug store. †

THEY STULTIFY THEMSELVES.

Senator Pritchard and Marion Butler, both of whom want to hold their soft snaps in the Senate, are now pulling together in opposition to the proposed constitutional amendment. Butler takes his cue from Pritchard and toots while Pritchard fingers the keys of the tooting horn. They and lesser lights of the Rep-Pop gang profess to be very confident that the amendment will be defeated, and predict the figures by which it will be defeated in some Western counties, where there is a majority of white voters.

But don't they stultify themselves, and discredit their predictions, when professing to feel so confident of the defeat of the amendment they are moving to get up an injunction to prevent the election from being held, and are raising money to pay the expenses of contesting the election in the courts after it is held?

If they felt half as sure of victory as they profess to feel, wouldn't they rather hold an election, wallop the Democrats and have the prestige this would give them than try to choke off the election with an injunction? Of course they would.

If they were so confident of victory, would they be holding party conferences to discuss the ways and means of getting this question before the courts to test the constitutionality of the amendment after the election has been held?

If he felt confident would Senator Pritchard be offering in the Senate an absurd resolution asking the Senate to declare unconstitutional a measure which has not yet been adopted and with which the Senate has no more to do, until it is adopted, if then, than it has to do with the collection of customs duties at Hong Kong?

Men who are confident of having the people behind them do not wriggle around so and resort to so many devices to prevent an expression of that will or to nullify it when expressed.

Pritchard and Butler are both jays when they cannot see that their predictions are discredited by their previous utterances and actions.

— Newton Enterprise: Capt. Ben. Clark, a freight conductor on the Southern Road, is afflicted with a very peculiar disease of the head. For twelve months an opening has been gradually going on in the skull from ear to ear until the space between the separated parts is now large enough to put the finger in. He continues daily at his work but suffers constantly from the headache. Dr. Campbell is in correspondence with Dr. Tiffany of New York, an expert in skull diseases, who says it is a very peculiar case and advises Mr. Clark to go there for treatment.

— Wilson Times: Lon Daughtrey who killed Neil Jordan near the cotton factory, in this city about a year ago has been caught in Newport News and is now in jail awaiting the action of the authorities here. —— Mr. J. J. Farmer a prosperous farmer living near Wilson showed us a brass ring he found in the mouth of a hog he killed last week. It seemed that the hog never thrived as the others in the bunch, which fact elicited Mr. Farmer's attention. Upon examination after killing the porker, the ring was found around the tongue fastened in the fleshing part next to the throat. The ring is about 1¼ inches in diameter.

— Wadesboro Messenger-Intelligencer: The clothing of the little 3-year-old daughter of Mr. James Sings, who lives in McFarlan, caught fire Tuesday, while she was playing around the fire, and before it could be extinguished she was so badly burned that death resulted Wednesday. The child's mother was in the yard when the accident occurred. —— Dr. W. A. Ingram's office was broken into Saturday night and robbed of $100 in gold. The money was in a small red Morrocco pocket book which was locked in a drawer, and consisted of five 20-dollar pieces. The thief entered the office through the scuttle hole in the roof.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— The wealth of the United States is estimated at one hundred billions of dollars, and yet there are hundreds of thousands of people in the United States who to-day are hungry, and cold and ragged and hopeless.—Atlanta Journal, Dem.

—— Senator Cullom is a fair average in that body; but John R. Tanner would be a sorry one. One's enough in all conscience.—Chattanooga Times, Dem.

—— The Roberts case is beginning to worry the Republicans. Having started wrong, they think it would be humiliating to turn around and start right. Roberts has as much right to his seat as any congressman now on the floor of the capitol. After he is seated the house can deal with his polygamous record as it chooses. Atlanta Constitution, Dem.

—— Chairman Payne of the Ways and Means Committee of the House thinks it would not be wise to cut down any Internal Revenue or War Revenue tax, until we see whether the customs duties will fall off, and how much. For a leader in the G. O. P., Chairman Payne exhibits a sad lack of confidence in the "Protective Tariff."—Brooklyn, N. Y., Citizen, Dem.

SEVEN TIMES A WIDOW.

Marie Del Costillo's Husbands All Met Violent Deaths.

Marie Del Costillo of California has had seven husbands, all of whom met death in some violent form. When she was 19 years old, she fell in love with a young ranchman and stockman, Jose Cassela. They were happy for nearly two years, and then one day her husband fell from a wagon. When picked up, his skull was found to be fractured. He was killed instantly and never spoke again.

After remaining a widow for one year in 1883 she was wooed and won by Manville Harris, the son of a storekeeper of that name. For eight months nothing occurred to mar their happiness, and then one day her husband had a bad fall, breaking his leg. Instead of the break healing and the bone knitting as it should, blood poisoning set in, and in a few weeks she was a widow for the second time.

For two years she remained a widow but her youth and beauty proved such a strong magnet and the importunations of her suitors so persistent that she in 1886 married Felipe Helmuth, a miner. This time her conjugal happiness was of short duration, for within five weeks after the marriage there was a cave in at the mine where Helmuth was working, and his crushed and almost unrecognizable body was recovered a few days later.

To be thrice widowed in four years alarmed the beautiful widow, and she determined not to tempt the fates again by marrying, but five years later, in 1801, William Storey, a young actor, who had known her when they were children, succeeded in persuading her to take the fourth venture upon the matrimonial sea.

They took a ranch near San Juan and were happy for a few short months. One evening while out walking by himself Storey entered what is known as the "Speaking canyon." Perhaps the happy bridegroom in ecstasy whispered his bride's name while alone and surrounded by the somber walls stretching far above him. Perhaps he was frightened by the thunderous reply that was shouted back at him. In this weird canyon one spoken word would make him the center of an oddying whirlpool of monosyllables that would flutter about him like birds of the night of evil omen, while a spoken sentence in an ordinary tone would engulf him in a whirlpool of rushing, noisy echoes. Perhaps that was why he lost his reason and shot himself.

Husband No. 5 was an Englishman named George Prouter, an heir to English estates and an ardent, determined, earnest lover. He laughed at the fears of the terror stricken widow, declared that she was morbid and finally married her against her protest, telling her that he would take her across the ocean and break the spell of misfortune that seemed to surround her.

He had planned their future as one round of social pleasure and success in England, but before he could take her away from her surroundings he accidentally shot himself while hunting a few weeks after their marriage and was dead before his friends could carry him home.

For two years she again donned widow's weeds, and, although in less than a year after Prouter's death an old suitor made his second proposal for her hand, she held out until in 1894 she finally gave up, and in sullen disregard for the consequences she married Beam Campbell. Two months later she was totally unmoved when she learned of the catastrophe that made her a widow for the sixth time. Her husband was in a mine elevator when the machinery broke, and he went crashing to the bottom of the shaft to be crushed to jelly at the end of his fall.

The following year the seventh husband, Rey Costillo, a young Mexican, undeterred by the fate of the previous six, with passionate fiery fervor, vowed that he would break the fatal charm that surrounded her life and, in spite of her warnings, succeeded in inducing Marie Prieto Cassela Harris Helmuth Storey Prouter Campbell to take the seventh journey to the altar, and in just 28 days after the wedding he was caught in a treacherous quicksand in Amador county, Cal., and was suffocated in the yielding, sinking deathtrap before help could reach him.

her, and on the back of each is inscribed one of her weird prayers. The Indians credit her with the power to perform miracles, cure disease by touch, prophesy and exorcise evil spirits. Though frail and delicate, she possesses great magnetic power. She incited the Yaquis to rebellion some years ago.

STAGE GLINTS.

Jeffreys Lewis will star in Brady's new Chinese play, "The Queen of Chinatown."

Blanche Bates has taken the plunge into the sea of greatness by acting Nora in Ibsen's malodorous "A Doll's House."

"The Ameer" is the title of the operetta in which Frank Daniels is to appear next season. Fred M. Ranken and Kire La Shelle wrote it, and Victor Herbert composed it.

Ellen Rowan, who paid several thousand dollars for the privilege of playing Portia in a Broadway theater, New York, a few years ago, is acquiring experience less expensively, and doubtless more valuably, in a stock company that gives two performances a day.

Mr. Gillette rewrites his plays several times. The first draft is readily dashed off. This is typewritten, and the author goes over it, interlining here and cutting there until he has a second version of it ready. The play is typewritten again, and there is another revision and re-editing.

It is related that before appearing as Hamlet Sarah Bernhardt studied the part for three years. In order to fully grasp the meaning of the ghost scene she retired to her chateau in Normandy and paced the lonely battlements night after night, mentally picturing to herself the appearance of specters from the darkness.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, January 15.—Cotton futures were neglected almost from start to finish in the local market today. Nobody appeared to be in possession of orders and scalpers were indifferent. The opening was easy with prices unchanged to five points lower, the decline being more in the way of a sympathetic response to weak cables than to special pressure from the bear side. Later, unfavorable English advises caused a further settling of values here, but in no way encouraged shorts, not a few of whom took advantage of the decline to even up accounts. Though receipts were light and Southern markets generally strong, the trade overlooked these factors and diverted attention exclusively to the situation in Liverpool and South Africa. New Orleans and a local export house were identified as the principal buyers, though Liverpool purchased scattered lots from time to time. Liverpool weakness was reported later in the day as due partially to heavy selling for the purpose

AUTUMN STYLES.

White Still Holds a Foremost Position In Favor.

White is so immensely fashionable that tailor made costumes of white pique will be worn much later in the season than would ordinarily be the case. A bolero of black or colored silk or cloth will afford extra protection when the air is chilly, but pique is in itself a substantial fabric and not specially cool. Revers of black velvet are the latest addition to white pique jackets or boleros, and black cords, pipings or braid often serves as a trimming.

For those who prefer a worsted fabric as fall approaches there are gowns of white mohair or of tones just off white. Pearl gray is also a favorite tint. With these gowns a vest of white silk is worn, but when the costume is darker the vest is usually of a contrasting color instead of white. The vest buttons are small and are of crystal, dead gold, turquoise, garnet or steel, and the vest itself is cut high, showing just the knot of the cravat.
The attractive bodice illustrated is of white satin, richly embroidered with pale green silk and gold spangles. It has a guimpe of puffed mousseline de soie over white satin, and the top of the sleeves is of the same material. The mousseline portion and the fronts are bordered with three little bands of velvet, and three green satin bows fasten the fronts. The sleeves are embroidered like the bodice and are finished with a mousseline frill and a green satin band and bow. The belt is also of green satin.

FALL FASHIONS.

Ideas For the Wardrobe of the Demi-season.

Dark costumes for women of mature years are enriched by a vest of Louis Quinze or Louis Seize brocade, which gives value and dignity to an otherwise plain gown.
Simple hats are often very effective. A straw shape, trimmed with a drapery of tulle and a knot of black velvet, is sometimes more elegant in aspect than a far more elaborate creation.
A novel idea is seen in straw hats in which the braid is stitched with heavy silk of a contrasting color.
Now that fabrics are tucked, embroidered and puffed in the piece and sold by the yard many odd ideas in decoration appear. The latest consists of narrow bands of oblique tucks, the bands being 1½ or 2 inches wide, a band of the stuff of the same width being left untucked between the bands of tucks. The untucked bands form puffs because of the fullness taken up by the tucks. Only very thin silks can be thus employed.

The cut illustrates a shirt waist of cream foulard, with a pointed pompadour design. It has lengthwise clusters of tucks and a full plastron, with a yoke of white surah trimmed with bands of lace. The collar is also of white surah, trimmed with tucks and lace. The sleeves are tucked horizontally at the top and are gathered into tucked cuffs. An embroidered collar and black satin stock are worn, and the belt is of white kid, with a gold buckle.

BARIUM ROCK SPRING WATER.

(Old Poison Spring), is nature's specific for every form of skin disease and blood poison. It does not, like soap and ointment, merely destroy for a time the external signs, but goes to the root of the evil and drives out the poison in the blood which causes the eruptions to appear.

METHODIST PARSONAGE,
ROCKINGHAM, N. C., Oct. 14, 1898.
I can bear testimony to the great value of Barium Rock Spring Water for Eczema and other eruptive diseases of the skin. I have known MANY CASES CURED, some of them of the most stubborn character.

WILMINGTON, N. C.
TUESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 16.

THE KENTUCKY CONTEST FOR THE GOVERNORSHIP.

Arguments of Counsel Before the Legislative Boards—Governor Taylor's Protests Overruled.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

FRANKFORT, KY., January 15.—The contest boards in the Governor and Lieutenant Governorship cases met today, every member of both boards attending. Several hundred witnesses, mostly from Lexington, were present. It was announced the two boards would sit together. Taylor's attorneys protested that his charges of disqualification of several of its members were overruled without investigation, which if had would have left the committee without a quorum. Mayor Weaver, Chief of Police Haager, and General J. B. Castlemen are among the witnesses. Kohn, of Goebel's counsel, filed the affidavits of all members of the contest board who are under challenge and also the affidavits of the clerks of both houses of the Legislature. These deny the allegations in the Taylor protest. The objections of Taylor's counsel on all of these matters were overruled.

Attorney Edeln then proceeded to argue the exceptions filed to the notices of contest. The notices, he held, were insufficient and defective in that they arrogated to the contest board judicial powers not conferred on that body by law; that there was no allegation that the several thousand persons kept away from the polls would have voted for Goebel in any event; that the allegation regarding alleged unlawful mandatory injunctions issued by Judge Toney in Louisville failed to show that the alleged unauthorized persons who entered the polls did anything that affected the result of the election; that the charges of intimidation of railroad employes by railroad officials were unsupported by names.

Mr. Phelps responded for the Goebel side, claiming that none of the objections cited by counsel on the other side were really in the way.

Mayor Charles P. Weaver, of Louisville, was examined to show that all precautions had been taken for an orderly and fair election and that the use of the troops operated as an intimidation. Mr. Weaver said among other things that he favored Goebel for the nomination and had heard that all of his appointees supported Goebel. Mr. Weaver said that owing to incendiary speeches and publications in the newspapers, there was a feeling of unrest but not such, he thought, as required the military. The local authorities he regarded as amply equal to the occasion. He detailed the steps which he as mayor had taken to preserve order, mentioning the appointment of special police, etc.

H. P. McDonald, a Democratic election officer, the second witness, attributed the Democratic falling off in his district to threats of intimidation.

These witnesses were examined at the night session, at which also the exceptions filed to the notices of contest had been elaborated on before the witnesses were called.

By a strictly party vote, the exceptions were overruled. Judge Yost filed a demurer which was promptly overruled. Judge Yost then filed answer to the motions of contest in both cases and was granted until Wednesday to prepare and file counter notices. The boards then adjourned until tomorrow.

THE SMALLPOX SITUATION.

Eight Cases in the City of Greensboro—Many in the County—Ten Cases Developed in Rockingham.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

RALEIGH, N. C., January 15.—Mayor Taylor, of Greensboro, N. C., to-night made the following statement in regard to the smallpox situation there:

"Inspection to-day by a government expert shows only eight cases of smallpox within the city limits, confined exclusively to the negro districts. A thorough inspection of the city will be made at once and all cases sent to the hospital, as well as those who have been exposed

"Our population was thoroughly vaccinated last Spring and compulsory vaccination will again be enforced with all who have not been successfully vaccinated within the past twelve months. No excitement whatever and we anticipate no trouble.

(Signed) "Z. V. TAYLOR, Mayor."

The disease, however, is not confined to the city and over one hundred cases are reported in the county by Dr. Wertenbaker, of the United States Marine Hospital at Wilmington, N. C., who has been ordered there to make an investigation.

Prevents Pritchard Speaking.

RALEIGH, N. C., January 15.—The campaign against the proposed constitutional amendment in this State was to have been opened to-morrow at Rockingham by Senator Pritchard. An outbreak of smallpox will, however, prevent his speaking. Ten well developed cases were discovered there to day and the speaking has been indefinitely postponed. Court, which was in session, has been adjourned, and neighboring towns have quarantined against the place.

THE WRECKED STEAMER.

Name of the Vessel Still Unknown—Impossible to Launch Boats.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Jan. 15, midnight.—The latest advices destroy many theories propounded concerning the disaster and render it more mysterious than ever. Owing to the turbulent seas it is impossible to launch boats or venture to the beach with any safety. The wreckage is increasing.

The colonial cruiser Fiona is now at the wreck. She will be joined in the morning by the tug Ingraham and a diver will then go down if the sea permits.

Several vessels have been mentioned as possibly the wreck, including the Parran, from Baltimore, and the Falk, a coaler, but it is claimed that neither of them could have been in that vicinity.

WOLCOTT SCORES MR. PETTIGREW.

Another Animated Discussion on the Philippine Question in the Senate.

THE BEVERIDGE RESOLUTION.

Berry of Arkansas Declared it Gave an Absolute Power as Possessed by the Czar of Russia—Pettigrew Resumed His Speech.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, January 15.—There was another animated Philippine discussion to-day in the Senate, in the course of which Mr. Pettigrew, South Dakota, was scathingly arraigned by Senator Wolcott, Colorado. At the opening, Senator Berry, Arkansas, had read the resolutions presented by Senator Bacon of Georgia and Beveridge of Indiana. Those who desired to discuss the Philippine question, said Senator Berry, were met by the objection that they were aiding those who were in arms against the United States, and were responsible for the loss of life among our soldiers. He regarded this position as absolutely unwarranted. The Beveridge resolution has been endorsed, he said, by the administration leaders, yet it conferred an authority and a power upon this country as absolute as was possessed by the Czar of Russia.

"What is imperialism," Senator Berry asked, "if it is not the assertion of such a power as is asserted by the resolution of Senator Beveridge? He declared his unalterable opposition to such a declaration and believed the people of the United States would not approve so plain a violation of the constitution.

Senator Berry did not admit that the American people were the trustees of the Lord in the appointed work of civilizing the Philippines. He said that when men asserted that they were the trustees of the Lord he wanted some more substantial proof of the assertion than their own word, and such a trusteeship ultimately would destroy the foundation of the government. He argued in favor of the Bacon resolution, and said if that were adopted to day, not another gun would be fired in the Philippine revolution and all the material advantages sought by Senator Beveridge would be gained. He placed the responsibility for the insurrection upon the President, declaring that if his proclamation had not been issued not a gun would have been fired and not a drop of our soldiers' blood would have been shed. He said that in his opinion the President had issued that proclamation unwillingly; that he had been forced into that position he now occupies by scheming politicians. The wrong could have been repaired by the adoption of the Bacon resolutions.

Senator Pettigrew resumed his speech upon the general Philippine question, his text being his resolution of inquiry. He said the logical conclusion of a policy of denying freedom to others would be the destruction of the republic. Senator Pettigrew discussed at length the constitutional questions involved in the administration's Philippine policy. He then entered upon a sharp attack on the treaty made by the Americans with the Sultan of Sulu. He charged that polygamy and slavery were not only endorsed but maintained by the United States through this treaty. He declared that the Republican party was going out of power as the champion of slavery and a repudiator of the declaration of independence.

At 2 o'clock the financial bill, as the unfinished business, was laid before the Senate. By unanimous consent it was arranged that Senator Pettigrew should conclude his speech and be followed by Senator Wolcott with a brief reply before consideration of the financial bill should be resumed.

Senator Pettigrew cited Egypt as one of the countries brought under English "civilizing sway." As a result, over 3,500 minions of the English government were wringing taxes from the oppressed people in Egypt in the name of civilization. Ireland, Catholic Ireland, was also bowed down under the English yoke. If we desired to make war on Catholics, however, we could find them nearer home. Aside from all these considerations, Senator Pettigrew argued that the Americans could not dominate the Philippines. It was an historical fact, he asserted, that the Ayran race could not live in the tropics. He contended that trade did not follow the flag and that we have to ship our supplies there.

He referred to the competing of our working men with six million cheap workers in the Philippines, the taxing to support an army of occupation, and what he called the subsidy of ships to carry trade that the trusts might exploit the labor of the Philippines. To hold the Filipinos without their consent he said gave the lie to every fourth of July oration ever delivered in this country. He agreed with Lincoln that a house divided against itself could not stand.

Senator Wolcott, Colorado, followed. He said our first duty is to quell the insurrection. When that prevailed it was time enough to bring order out of the chaos that existed there. He would not have replied at all save for the "remarkable and intemperate" utterances of the Senator from South Dakota. No better demonstration of the value of the Senate, as a public forum, could be found than this speech. There were in this country seventy millions of people, good, bad and indifferent. In the warm sunshine some saw only the shadows; behind every good action they looked for a lurking sinister purpose. There was but a step from individual to national hatred, hatred of the country which nourished and protected them. It was fitting that such people should be represented here, "And I know of no man so fitted to speak to them as the Senator from South Dakota," said Senator Wolcott, turning his eyes upon Senator Pettigrew, who sat close to him, and who steadily returned the gaze of his assailant. "During all the years I have known him," continued Senator Wolcott, "I never knew him to say a kind or friendly word about a single person or a single cause. It is not only valuable that such persons as I have mentioned should be represented here, and their views should be aired and ventilated, but it is of great importance that those views may serve as a warning to the young men who are growing to manhood and upon whom eventually the responsibility of government will fall. They should see how important it is that they should cultivate a good digestion, a hopeful heart and a cheerful mind.

It was possible, he said, that we were a chosen people, as Mr. Beveridge had said, whom God Almighty had made a trustee for the civilization of the world. But if so we would need to treble our fleet of war vessels, we would have to join England and Germany in the partition of China, we must needs seize Madagascar and Port Arthur.

"My own idea of the mission of America," said the Senator, "is that it is the last hope of the republics; that broad, large, fertile areas will gradually fill up by the admission of the foreigners and oppressed of other lands and that in days of peace we will work out the noblest and highest social problems I believe it is idle to talk of our being God's chosen people."

Mr. Pettigrew replied briefly, saying his relations in the Senate had been most pleasant and the Senate could not hide behind the large personality of Mr. Wolcott. He did not think the attack upon himself was worthy of reply and said that while he had not spent much time in lauding Mr. Wolcott, he was "ready to confess he has a large voice." He marvelled at the division in the ranks of the Imperialists. The Senator from Indiana (Beveridge) had said the motive of expansion was "greed," the Senator from Colorado (Wolcott) said it was "philanthropy." The latter was the motive which actuated Spain in her conquest of the Western world. Her pretext was civilization and religious zeal. Those were the motives of Pizarro, who butchered people right and left. Proceeding, Senator Pettigrew pointed out the names of many illustrious men who had opposed the policy of their home governments to aggressions abroad, notably Fox and Pitt, who had denounced the course of King George against the American colonies. "It is these champions of freedom," said he, "who dared to denounce the course of their governments."

Financial Bill Considered.

The Financial bill was then considered. Senator Rawlins, of Utah, addressed the Senate in opposition to the measure, which he intimated was one of the objects of those who favored imperialism. He denounced the bill as sanctified by Wall street and blessed by the British financial promoters. He declared the efforts of the Republican party to bring about bimetallism had been perfidious and treacherous, and that there was no example in history of greater duplicity. He devoted his chief attention to the House bill, for which the Senate measure is a substitute, pointing out what he regarded as its serious defects. He said it was astonishing that on the eve of a financial crash, due to an arrested money supply, a proposition should be made in Congress that, in his opinion, would multiply the dangers.

Mr. Davis, chairman of the Foreign Relations committee, gave notice that early to-morrow he would move an executive session.

At 5.20 P. M. the Senate went into executive session, and then adjourned.

House of Representatives.

To day's session of the House was devoted to the consideration of business pertaining to the District of Columbia. Representative June W. Gayle, of Kentucky, who succeeds the late Evan Settle, was sworn in and the Urgent Deficiency bill was reported by Chairman Cannon, with a notice that he would ask that it be taken up to-morrow.

The Urgency Deficiency appropriation bill, the first of the important supply bills for the government, reported to the House by Chairman Cannon today, carries $56,127,851, of which $47,602,332 is re appropriations for the military and naval establishments and $8,525,509 direct appropriations. The more important direct appropriations are: Treasury department, $2,069,624; War department, $199.617; naval establishments, $3,750,000; postal service, $390.327; Paris exposition, $169,500; printing and binding, 270,000; judgments, Indian depredation claims, $142,112; judgments, Courts of Claims, $2,123,935. The war and naval appropriations were given in detail when the deficiency estimates were submitted. The main changes are in adding $1,000,000 to the commissary general's allowances, and in providing $750,000 for transporting the Spanish prisoners in the Philippines to their homes.

The House then adjourned until to-morrow.

FIGHTING IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Gen. Otis Reports Encounters With Armed Bands of Insurgents—Spanish Prisoners Released.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, January 15.—The War Department to day received the following report from General Otis:

Manila, January 15.—Bolomen and armed insurgents, robbers from Zeambalos mountains, attacked two companies of 25th infantry, O'Neil commanding, at Iba, January 6th; were driven and pursued with the loss to them of fifty men; no casualties. Schwan's troops are east and south of San to Tomas, Batanzas.

Yesterday Cheatham's battalion o the 37th struck the enemy east of the Santo Tomas and San Pablo road and the enemy left five dead on the field. Cavalry soon appearing pursued the force eastward; no report of result. Cheatham's casualties one wounded.

Anderson, with the Thirty-eighth, en route to Lipa yesterday, struck the insurgents a few miles south of Santo Tomas and drove them through Lipa to Rosario. The enemy's loss was twenty dead and wounded, six Spanish prisoners and $20,000; Anderson's casualties were one man killed and two wounded.

Schwan has liberated about 200 Spanish prisoners, and they are now en route to Manila. Wheaton's force is actively operating in western Cavite and Batanga provinces. All important towns are held. A great many Filipinos are returning to their homes; believed to be insurgent deserters.

IMPORTANT NEWS EXPECTED SOON.

British Forces Reported to Have Crossed the Orange and Tugela Rivers.

THERE IS STILL ANXIETY.

Gallantry of the Ladysmith Garrison—Boers' Attack Met With a Bloody Repulse—Place Still Closely Invested—Relief Column.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, January 16, 4 A. M.—General Buller's latest authentic word as to what he and his 30,000 men are doing, was wired from Springfield after his first forward step. Striving to think out the unknown, London is confused by surmise and rumor and disquieted by suspense. Spencer Wilkinson, the lucid military expert of the Morning Post, asserts that the Boers' force in Northern Natal is larger than General Buller's and Sir George White's together, so that the Boers are able to leave a force around Ladysmith larger than that within the town and yet to oppose General Buller with a force superior to his own.

Reports from the Boer camps affirm that the circle of investment has been drawn closer by the occupation of some hills near the town, thus liberating reinforcements to oppose Gen. Buller. Although the war pages of the great dailies to day are almost barren, the telegraph instruments click ceaselessly.

Yeomanry recruiters are getting only one and one-half companies out of upwards of 1,000 applicants, and in the metropolitan districts, the officers fail to meet requirements, and although the provinces are doing better, the raising of 10,000 yeomen is far from easy. A strike among the military tailors is another perplexity.

An Interview With Kruger.

J. B. Robinson, the South African millionaire, in a signed article in the Daily News this morning, relates conversations he has had with President Kruger. On one occasion President Kruger said:

"Do you mean to tell me that you do not know that the men who organized and engineered the Jameson raid organized it for their own benefit? They had decided how they would divide the Transvaal and how each of the parties was to have certain interests in this country.

"Many reformers who were put in jail were perfectly innocent. They were ignorant of the schemes of the men in the inner circle. There were only twelve men in that inner circle, and they were to divide the Transvaal among themselves.

"They and their companies found the money for the raid. Do you think we are so innocent as not to know that Rhodes, metaphorically speaking, held a pistol at the heads of certain men in England and said to them: 'If you do not support me I shall denounce you and your complicity in the raid.'"

At this stage, according to Mr. Robinson, President Kruger became more excited and shouted so loudly that people in the street stopped to listen to the conversation.

Mr. Kruger then said: 'And now you are remonstrating with me about arming. It is true that I am arming and it is because I see clearly that I must defend my country.'

To this Mr. Robinson replied: "The British public is aroused. If any attempt were made again to enter this country there would be a great outcry in England and the imperial authorities would take steps to punish the organizers and to prevent such freebooting expeditions."

President Kruger approached Mr. Robinson, placed a hand on his shoulder, made a violent effort to suppress his excitement, and said: "You mean well, but I have lost all confidence. What has happened would take place again, and I am determined to guard against it."

Later, Mr. Kruger said: "What is to prevent Rhodes and his coadjutors again engineering some diabolical attempt against the independence of my country?"

The Birmingham Mail, the organ of Joseph Chamberlain, says: "We understand, on the highest authority, that if the government is defeated in Parliament on the question of the war, the cabinet will immediately appeal to the country, all the ministers having decided to stand together and not to permit any individual minister to be made a scapegoat."

In the Enemy's Country.

ORANGE RIVER, January 12.—Gen. Wood, for the first time in the campaign, has established a post in the enemy's country. With a force of all arms he took up a position January 6th at Zeuptpan's drift, on the north side of the Orange river, in the Free State.

LONDON, January 15.—A special dispatch from Cape Town, dated January 13th, announces that General Warren has crossed the Tugela river.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 13.—There is good reason to believe that the statement that Sir Charles Warren with 11,000 men has gone toward Weenen, is correct, and we may expect important news shortly.

Reports have been received here that dysentery is very rife in Ladysmith.

Everything is phenomenally quiet at Sterkstroom.

Situation at Ladysmith.

LONDON, January 15.—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, at Pietermaritzburg, telegraphing Thursday, January 13th, says:

"The gallantry of the Ladysmith garrison last Saturday appears to have depressed if not actually demoralized the Boers generally. It is believed that their loss is at least two if not three killed as against our one.

"Many Boers are believed to be trekking northward. The magistrate at Nqutu, Zululand, telegraphs that scouts report having seen many Boer families with wagons proceeding north, via Zululand, while a European residing at Dundee declares that after the repulse at Ladysmith a number of Boer wagons, loaded with dead and wounded, passed through that mining township and that the Boers burned some of the public buildings as they departed. Five days have passed since then."

BOER HEADQUARTERS, January 9.—The Boers occupying the southern edges of Bester's kop were driven out by the British Saturday. Commandant Nel, on the west of the town, and the Pretoria commando, on the north, have taken the kopjes commanding Cæsar's camp, from which they maintain a continuous sniping of the British. The Pretoria commando lost six men killed and six wounded in attempting to storm the fort.

Supplies for the Boers.

LONDON, January 16.—The Hamburg correspondent of the Daily Mail says:

"An export firm has undertaken the immediate delivery of 300,000 meters of barbed wire to the Free State."

The Daily Mail publishes the following from a special correspondent at Lecreusot, France:

"After two days' inquiry I do not hesitate to assert that the Schneider Company is not only working night and day in the manufacture of guns and ammunition for the Boers, but that it has already packed, ready for shipment to the Transvaal, six heavy guns of large calibre. The workmen told me that ere long thirty additional guns would be dispatched to the Boers."

British Relief Column.

LONDON, January 16.—A Standard dispatch, dated Saturday, January 13th, from Durban, says:

"A man who has just arrived here from Springfield says that a British column proceeding to the relief of Ladysmith has crossed the Little Tugela. When he left it was facing the Boer position on the Big Tugela and a howitzer was shelling the Boer trenches.

"He says also that 270 wagons, laden with commissariat stores for Ladysmith, had left Frere, and it was expected that the column would join hands with General White Monday evening.

"The traction engines have been doing excellent work in hauling heavy wagons out of holes and swamps. This they accomplished with the greatest ease.

"British patrols have discovered parties of Boers in the direction of Ennersdale, between Frere and Estcourt."

BRYAN AND THE TRUSTS.

Endorses the Proposal of President Hadley of Yale University to Ostracise Trust Magnates.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 15.—Colonel William Jennings Bryan and President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale University, were interviewed to day relative to the latter's proposal to ostracise trust magnates. Both are agreed on the idea that social recognition should be denied to any man engaged in a trust or other business enterprise inimical to the public welfare, and that the public mind should be educated to see those evils that exist in the trust system.

Colonel Bryan said: "The idea is a good one and should be encouraged. A man who tries to rob the public by means of a trust, or by wrecking a bank or railroad, should no more be countenanced by society than a plain highwayman. The thing needed is to awaken and educate the public mind and conscience on such matters. When the people understand the harm there is in trusts they will be ready to apply a remedy. There are things which were permitted in society twenty-five years ago which are not tolerated at all to day. The change has been wrought through education A similar change will take place when the people learn the true moral status of the trust question.

THE BUBONIC PLAGUE.

Seven Cases Reported at Honolulu for the Week Ended January 9th.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, January 15.—Surgeon General Wyman received a brief dispatch to-night from Dr. Carmichael, in charge at Honolulu, concerning the plague there. It is dated January 9th and covers the period from January 1st, since which time seven cases of the plague had been reported.

ADELAIDE, SOUTH AUSTRALIA, January 15.—The bubonic plague patient is recovering and no new cases are reported.

At Noumea, New Caledonia, there has been one death from bubonic since January 11th, but no fresh cases have developed.

HONOLULU, January 8, via San Francisco, January 15.—Since the 1st instant nine cases of the plague have developed, making 22 cases to date. The board of health has adopted heroic measures. Thus far but one European has been attacked. The others are Chinese, Japanese, Hawaiians and a South Sea islander.

PROCEEDINGS FOR PRIZE MONEY.

Attorney General Asks That Claims Be Referred to a Commission.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, January 15.—Attorney General Griggs has filed answer in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, in the proceedings for prize money for captures at Manila bay by Admiral Dewey. The attorney general asks that the case be referred to a commissioner and that Admiral Dewey, his officers and crew and also the United States may have leave to take testimony. The attorney general concedes that a state of war existed, but denies that the squadron under Dewey's command captured the Spanish cruisers Isla de Cuba, Isla de Luzon and Don de Juan Austria. These vessels, he says, were sunk during the engagement. He asks for fuller information in regard to other points and says although some captures of property were made, such capture does not authorize its condemnation as prize to Dewey and his men.

The attorney general has also filed a similar answer in the case of Admiral Sampson and the destruction of Cevera's fleet.
